About all we can do this week is talk about the freezing weather of last weekend.

Almost all small bayous, lakes and ponds were frozen over. No matter how bad things are some good comes to some. Speckle trout were found frozen in the canal across the Bay at Henderson Point. Believe it or not the fish that were frozen came to life when put in the kitchen sink. Fish however are still being caught in the boat harbor at Pass Christian. Some weighed as much as six pounds, I was told.

Youngsters can find sport in most anything. The kids were running and skidding on the frozen ice out in front of the Bay.

One youngster found a 3 lb. flounder frozen in a cake of ice.

Most people were too busy getting broken pipes repaired and had no time to participate in Several reports have come in regarding quail and rabbit hunting. The quail season closed on January 15, leaving only the quail and rabbit seasons open to hunters.

The most popular bait used to catch speckle trout is the red and white Sogor bait according to Al Kingston. He said he has sold a lot of them. Al has a good supply of all kinds of sport goods in connection with his barber shop. He is an ardent fisherman and hunter.

Clifford Carver has been rather busy in his department store but says he will be glad when he gets a little time to get back to his old sport of fishing. He was telling of the deep sea fishing he did before coming back to the Bay.

Met a fine bunch of welders and mechanics who are putting the finishing touches to the Brig-nac plant here. They are Louis Billodaux of Arabi, La.; Daniel McIlvaine, E. J. Hoover and L. R. Kirkhart of New Orleans. All do a lot of fishing, golfing, etc., and promise to return to the Bay later and try their luck here.

Learned something new from Levell Cullum of Bogalusa. He told me of what they call May Fly time in his community. According to Levell there is a certain fly hatched in the month of May. Others the name May Fly (Time) which settles in trees and many drop into the water, and are excellent bait especially for blue gills, green trout etc. The May flies are not used as bait but the fish will strike most any type of surface bait thrown their way. Will take up your invitation Levell and see you in May!

Sorry to hear of the death of Dominic diBenedetto. Dominic was a Bay St. Louis boy and had many friends here.

Arthur Loiacano is confined to the hospital again—better hurry and get well Arthur—soft crabbing time will soon be here.

Speaking of soft crabs don't let anyone tell you that the small are not as good to eat as the larger ones. According to our experience most real large soft shell crabs are mealy and tough. Two crabs to a sandwich is tops. Fry them in corn meal (with pepper and salt) in hot cooking oil or fat. Turn over until crisp. Ask those who know.

Now that the holidays are over bowling is coming into its own again. Why don't you try bowling—it's good for what ails you.

The Bay St. Louis Jaycees edged out the Picayune Jaycees at St. Stanislaus Stadium Sunday 6-0 in the second annual Jaycee Bowl. Picayune won the inaugural affair last year, 7-6.

J. E. Loiacano, 20-year-old Bay St. Louis boy, all Mississippi full-back at Pearl River Junior College has signed a grant-in-aid scholarship with Miss. State. J. E. is a swell player and has many friends here who hope for him a wonderful future.

RESEARCH ON CORN SHOWS OPPORTUNITY FOR HIGHER YIELDS

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Record corn yields were made in Mississippi in 1961, but research shows opportunities for producing much more.

The average yield for the state was 37 bushels per acre, but in the main hybrid tests of the Experiment Station it was more than 60 bushels. Dr. C. O. Grogan, U.S. DA agronomist who heads the state's corn breeding program, says this fact indicates Mississippi is not approaching the full potential for corn yield.

In order to get information meaningful to all parts of the state, corn tests are planted at seven north Mississippi locations, six in central Mississippi and two in the Southern part of the state. Branch Experiment Stations provide most of the locations. Hybrids are checked not only for yield, but also for such factors as lodging, resistance to weevil, height of ear, number of ears per plant, etc. A number of experimental hybrids are included in the tests and their performance gives promise of better corn in the years ahead.

Detailed results, including 1961 yields and three-year averages, are published in the February issue of Mississippi Farm Research

PLANT COLOR INTO YOUR LANDSCAPE

In planting the home grounds, one of your goals should be to have color all year long, every season, whether it be spring, summer, fall or winter.

If you are fortunate enough to live in Florida or southern California in frost-free areas, you can have flowers in the winter-time. In the colder regions, you will rely on the various greens, and grays of evergreens, as well as berries, bark colors and limb structure of the plant to provide interest.

In the spring, nothing cheers the family so much as a lovely flowering tree. Your nurseryman will advise on this. In the spring also there are lovely shrub flowers, roses, forsythia, camellias in the south, azaleas, perennials, vi-hurnums and many others, such as rhododendrons.

In the summer there are annuals, roses, perennials, such as lilies of many new varieties, and a number of flowering trees.

Fall on the property can be made much more interesting than it is today in most cases. The barberries, with their orange-yellow leaves and red berries are used widely. One of the most colorful of all fall shrubs is the winged euonymus, with its winged branches and bright red foliage which can be distinguished from a considerable distance. Certain hydrangeas have purple leaves, while Mountain Ninebark, or Viburnum Carlesii, which have burnt orange to purple colors. In the vines, Virginia Creeper is scarlet, while bittersweet has the familiar orange berries and bright yellow leaves.

One must not leave out the various hollies with their large red berries and attractive foliage, nor the winterberry, with its thousands of tiny red berries.

There are so many foliages in the fall that they cannot be described. Even the common forsythia has attractive, long-lasting purple foliages. Contrasted with the evergreens, the colorful foliages are even more striking. Nurserymen will advise in relation to plants for color. Strive for plantings that offer lovely color during more than one season.

Garden Seminar At University of Mississippi Scheduled Feb. 12-15

UNIVERSITY, Miss.—The seventh annual Garden Seminar at the University of Mississippi, which is scheduled for Feb. 12-15, is the first event of the new year slated by the Garden Clubs of Mississippi. announces Mrs. Lester L. Brown, state publicity chairman of Kosciusko.

This annual forum, sponsored jointly by the University of Mississippi and the Garden Clubs of Mississippi, in a few brief years has become a mecca for gardeners of Mississippi and the Mid-South. Patterned along the lines of the Williamsburg forum, the seminar has brought to the University campus many outstanding people in the fields of art, landscape architecture, horticulture, antiques and flower arrangement.

The idea of the Garden seminar was conceived by Mrs. Frank Everett of Vicksburg and carried to a successful fruition in 1954 when she became president of the state organization of Garden Clubs. So well has the idea been accepted, with high caliber programs featured that the two-day period of lectures by various authorities has attracted the attention of the National Council of Garden Clubs. A bronze award was awarded by this organization for achievement in the fields of horticulture, landscape architecture, and flower arrangement.

Appearing on the program for the February 1962 Seminar are a large number of persons in varied fields of gardening. They include Miss Elizabeth Lawrence of Charlotte, N. C., who will lecture on landscape design on the evening of Feb. 13; Mrs. Homer Harris of Alexandria, La., who is Deep South Regional Director, Mrs. Louise E. Crump of Greenville, Miss., Mr. Lyle Carroll and Mr. Baxter Wilson of Jackson, Miss., and Mr. Ed Martin, landscape architect of Mississippi State University, who will participate in the morning session on Feb. 14; Mrs. Joe Hardin and Mrs. H. R. Wood of Grady, Ark., and Mrs. Fulton Murphy of Pine Bluff, Ark., who will be speakers on afternoon program, Feb. 14.

One of the highlights of the Seminar will be the banquet program on the evening of Feb. 14, when an "Evening in Japan" will be highlighted. Making plans for this event are Mrs. Jeter Eason, and Mrs. W. L. Benketon, Jr. Also assisting will be Mr. Ed Martin. Making his third Seminar appearance at the University of Mississippi will be Mr. William Hest of Chapel Hill, N. C., who will lecture on Horticulture. Also in the morning program will be the presentation of "Art and Flowers" by Mrs. Fulton Murphy of Pine Bluff, Ark.

Serving as chairman of the 1962 Seminar is Mrs. Walton Graham of Kosciusko.

AND RAILROAD AVES. WAVELAND

The Hon. Ross R. Barnett, Governor of Mississippi, believes that the State can grow and prosper only through creating more jobs and bigger payrolls. This is his personal goal for his term of office.

Mississippi on the march . . . Jobs and Payrolls

Wherever Mississippi is on the march, phone folks are helping with simple, dependable telephone communications. In the three-year period 1961-63, over $70 million of new construction is being done to be sure telephone facilities are ready for expanding needs of homes, farms and industry.

The industrial "Bill of Rights," enacted by the 1960 session of the Mississippi legislature, heralds a new era in Mississippi.

Results have been almost immediate... attracting 277 new and expanded industries since January 1960, creating an estimated 20,431 new jobs.

There was further proof of progress in the action of all Mississippians and their elected representatives which brought the new refinery to Pascagoula. This alone represents a $125 million investment — of which $40 million will go directly for construction payrolls over the next 18 months.

And there is promise of other dramatic gains as more industries accept Mississippi's invitation to grow and prosper here.

Yes, Mississippi is on the march . . . in November, the number of people employed in Mississippi's business and industry reached an all-time high of 503,834 . . . 24,122 more jobs than a year ago! More industry means more jobs . . . bigger payrolls . . . greater opportunity for all Mississippians today . . . and tomorrow.

OLD HANDS AT THIS

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... CALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is the repository of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A man who knows nothing about trees may admire a forest. But he'll never make a living in the timber business.

The Bible is like our other resources. It can fill any man with a sense of awe... but its rich treasures are for the earnest and patient seeker.

As you've held the Book and leafed its pages, you could almost feel its sacredness. And yet, when you began to read, perhaps it was like plodding an unfamiliar path.

Try again, today. But try with the zeal of the apprentice who counts experience itself a valuable reward. And turn to the Church for the inspiration that its worship and Bible study can provide.

Soon, like the timberman's forest, your Bible will be a friendly place of familiar trails, rich in God-given treasure. For, remember, even old hands once groped to find the Way.

March of Dimes Helps Dry Youngster's Tears

Anthony Ryan wasn't really a crybaby. But at 10 months he began crying almost incessantly, and at times even screamed. His loving parents in Philadelphia were nearly out of their minds. With four other small children, the household was pandemonium. No one appeared to know precisely what was causing the infant's dreadful paroxysms of pain. Eight months and countless tears later, the cause of Anthony's agony was at last diagnosed as rheumatoid arthritis, seemingly afflicting every area of his tiny body. It's 11 years now since Anthony was stricken. He will limp the rest of his life; he cannot play baseball today with the other boys in the block, and he is still in a great deal of pain. As a matter of fact, until just a short time ago he couldn't even turn his head. Science has not yet licked the problem of Anthony, and of thousands of children like him. There is still no simple, accurate test for the early diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis, although the outlook is hopeful. But many rheumatologists would agree today that modern diagnostic tools have been available to him, and had Anthony been examined immediately by a "team" of specialists in the medical and allied professions—the group of orthopedists, pediatricians, laboratory research scientists, physical therapists and others now available in March of Dimes-financed treatment centers in many parts of the nation—Anthony today might be skating with the other kids on the frozen pond at the bottom of Prince Circle where he lives. Although much of the injury done to Anthony in past years is irreparable, doctors at a new arthritis treatment center at Philadelphia Children's Hospital, sponsored by five March of Dimes chapters in the area, check him regularly to ease his pain and avoid further damage. This same "team approach" is also employed by the ever-growing number of National Foundation-March of Dimes chapter-sponsored clinics for treatment of birth defects, another area in which the health organization is concentrating. Infants with any of hundreds of major birth defects are now examined by as many as 12 specialists at each clinic, working together as a team that might include a pediatrician, neurosurgeon, urologist, orthopedist and internist as well as others. For instance, consider the perils from one birth defect that surrounded Cathy and Carol Gile, identical 8-year-old twins of Vancouver, Wash. From birth, the children have been seriously ill with a succession of maladies—pneumonia (each six times), ear infections (again, each six times) and other disorders which have meant prolonged hospitalization. Both were found to be afflicted with an inherited lack of antibodies, the substances in the blood which combat bacteria. At the University of Washington Hospital, Seattle, where 88 March of Dimes chapters in Washington, Idaho and Alaska have financed a birth defects clinic, the attractive little girls twice monthly are given injections which literally keep them alive. The Seattle "team" at the March of Dimes clinic watches over the twins devotedly. There are tens of thousands of Anthonys and Cathys and Carols in the United States today. One reason The National Foundation-March of Dimes turned to these diseases three years ago is that almost 700 babies are born each day in this country with significant birth defects, accounting for more than 21,000 deaths each year. Crippling rheumatoid arthritis affects 80,000 children and adolescents—apart from the overall toll of 11 million American victims of rheumatic diseases. An increasing number of sufferers from these two cruel handicaps are receiving treatment from the specialist "teams" at March of Dimes-financed chapter clinics. As more funds become available, additional centers will be established to provide medical care for even more victims of chronic crippling disease.

ON EAST COAST, Dr. John D. Bridges, director of March of Dimes Arthritis Treatment Center at Children's Hospital, Philadelphia, examines Anthony Ryan, 12 years.

ON WEST COAST, identical twins, Cathy and Carol Gile, 7 years, are greeted at March of Dimes Congenital Defects Clinic in University of Washington Hospital, Seattle.

INSURANCE PLAN FOR THOSE 65 BACK IN SENATE
 JACKSON, Miss. — An insurance plan for person 65 years old and over received the backing of the Senate Insurance Committee and about 20 insurance company officials. State Sen. Sonny Montgomery of Meridian has introduced a measure patterned after Connecticut's "minimum profit" plan. It would authorize state-licensed insurance companies to band together to offer aged citizen health and hospitalization insurance. Major medical insurance up to $10,000 would be bought by individuals and lifetime coverage with no cancellation. No physical examination would be required, nor would a pre-existing condition disqualify an applicant. William Brownlee of Hartford, Conn., assistant secretary of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., said there is a minimum protective cost of about one per cent taken from the surplus, and the remainder of the surplus is put back into benefits for policy holders. Three Mississippi associations dealing with life, accident, health and hospitalization insurance promised legislators they would report their feelings on the Connecticut plan within two weeks.

 Right now is a good time to start making plans for your farm activity for 1962. The first step in this planning might be to take a look at what the experts predict will happen agriculture-wise this year. Here are some of their predictions:
 Gross income to farmers is expected to rise, along with a rise in production costs. Larger cash receipts and increased government payments should increase net farm income, possibly as much as 10 percent over

Fowler, executive director, Mississippi Commission on hospital care.

Reserve Mobilization Efficient Response By Reserve Units
 Major General George T. Duncan, Commanding General of the IV US Army Corp, commended the efficient and willing response by the reserve units of the IV Corps recently called to active duty. The West Point general, who recently came to Birmingham from an army General Staff position, was responsible for the mobilization of the US Army Reserve and Army National Guard units in the states of Alabama, Mississippi and Florida. In a press conference held in Birmingham today he stated that the "man in the reserve and guard units in the Corps area moved to their mobilization stations with quick, quiet efficiency and—in many cases—at great personal sacrifice and financial loss.
 General Duncan said it is unfortunate that the accomplishments of the units called up have been given to the complaints of a comparatively few individuals who have been called to active duty.
 He pointed out that the Defense Department reports the recent mobilization as the smoothest in our history. The manner in which members of these units met this call to duty—some for the third time—reflects the high state of training which has been achieved by the individual members who had volunteered for service in the reserves to meet emergencies of this nature.
 The Corps commander said that in the IV Corps most of the requests for excusal or deferment have come from individuals who were not active in the reserve program but who were called to fulfill their obligations under the law to serve when called. These men were not members of units when called up but put on active duty to bring reserve and National Guard units up to full strength at their mobilization station, since these units while in reserve status, are maintained at less than full strength.
 General Duncan concluded his remarks by stating that the recent mobilization provided a true test of current reserve training and mobilization plans, and with minor exceptions they found to be sound. He said that he feels the reserve units called up are to be highly commended for the professional manner in which they responded and carried out their mobilization mission. The citizens of this country are indebted not only to the individuals who compose these units but to their families who have supported them in this call to national service.

the $11.7 billion in 1960. The farmer is likely to get a smaller share of the consumer's food dollar. This may drop to 37 cents from the 38 cents in 1961. The outlook for 1962 is for hog prices somewhat below the 1961 level; lamb prices improved over 1961; and an average farm price for all cattle and calves sold about the same as for 1961.
 Fed cattle prices next spring and early summer are not expected to break as sharply as they did last year, but slaughter cow prices are expected to be lower during the late summer and fall due to an increase in slaughter. Increased production of both beef and pork are in prospect. Production of lamb and mutton is expected to be down.
 Milk production in 1962 again is expected to register another significant increase as it did in 1961. Prices to farmers and consumers through next March are expected to be at about current levels. Thereafter the level of price supports to be announced before April 1 will be an important determinant of dairy prices.
 Production of eggs this year is expected to be a little above 1961, and egg prices to producers are likely to average below 38 cents per dozen indicated for 1961. Heavy broiler production appears to be in prospect for 1962 despite record low prices in 1961, and the turkey crop in 1962 is again likely to be large.
 Total supply of edible fats, oils and oilseeds during the 1961-62 marketing year is forecast at a record 16.1 billion pounds. This is about 15 percent higher than a year ago and is due largely to the record soybean crop of 1961. The total supply of feed grains and other concentrates for 1961-62 is down 7 million tons from the record supply of last year. This is the first interruption of the steady upward trend in feed concentrate supplies in 10 years.
 Feed prices have been low in relation to prices of livestock and livestock products since 1957. They probably will continue comparatively low in 1962, although they may be a little less favorable than during most of the past three or four years.
Banner Year For Farmers
 Mississippi farmers, using mechanical skill and technical knowledge performed new feats in production in 1961. It was a banner year in which farmers made advances on nearly all farm products and established new records in some areas. Farmers set new records of production in soybeans, rice, pecans, peaches, broilers, commercial eggs and per acre yields of corn.

LOOSE LIVESTOCK INCREASES HAZARD ON STATE ROADS

An increasing hazard on our state's roads is loose livestock. Accidents involving animals accounted for 2 deaths in 1961 and over 40 injuries. There were over 250 accidents and untold property damage. This situation has become so serious that stringent measures have been taken.

The law provides that cattle found loose on the highway right-of-way may be impounded and the owner of such cattle is subject to the impounding costs. The owner is also liable for any damage or injuries caused by his loose cattle.

Commissioner of Public Safety T. B. Birdsong has appointed Hinds County Patrolman Howard Evans to pick-up and impound any cattle found loose on the highways in Hinds County. According to Birdsong, "We must rigidly enforce this law to protect our drivers, as well as the owners of the livestock. Certainly, we do not want to take advantage of any stock owners but livestock must be kept off our roads. Other counties throughout the state are able to keep their livestock under control and we must do the same thing here in Hinds County."

Inspector Robert Burton of the Patrol's First District, including Hinds County, stated, "Our men have spent many hours keeping the highways clear of cattle. The routes where most of the offenses have occurred are Highway 49 north to Yazoo City, where both of 1961's fatalities due to animals occurred, 51 north to Pickens, and 80 west to Bovina. The Patrolmen on these runs are extending every effort to make sure the highways are kept clear of loose livestock. We hope that with the appointment of Evans our job will be a little easier and that our men will completely eliminate this menace."

Final Rites For Karl P. Kammer Held in New Orleans

Funeral services for Karl P. Kammer, 59, were held at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, January 16, from the House of Bultman, with a Requiem Mass at Holy Name of Jesus Church. Interment was in Metairie Cemetery, New Orleans.

Mr. Kammer, a New Orleans Public Service Inc. executive and engineer, died Monday morning in Waveland, Miss.

A former resident of New Orleans who had resided in Waveland in recent months, Mr. Kammer was named operating consultant of the electric power department on January 1. Prior to that he was executive assistant to the executive vice-president of NOPSI. He served for almost 20 years as general superintendent of electric power operations.

A graduate of Jesuit High School and the University of Detroit, Mr. Kammer was chairman of the New Orleans section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers from 1938 to 1940 and was president of the Louisiana Engineers Society in 1943. He was also a member of International House, the Engineers Club of New Orleans and the Rotary Club.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Paola Dupas Kammer; two daughters, Mrs. Donald R. Morrison and Mrs. Geoffrey T. Roach; three sons, Charles H. Kammer II, Karl P. Kammer Jr. and Paul L. Kammer; two sisters, Mrs. James J. Clann and Mrs. Thomas F. Richardson and two brothers, Noel P. Kammer and the Rev. Michael P. Kammer, S. J.

Audrey Hepburn, as zany playgirl Holly Golightly, accepts a light from Martin Balsam as boyfriend George Peppard looks on in a scene from Juror Shepherd's "Breakfast at Tiffany's." Director Calls 'Aladdin' Return To Hijinx Comedy

The old-time costume-comedy abounding in broad humor, sultry dancing girls and wild chases is still very much alive according to Henry Levine, who directed Joseph E. Levine's "The Wonder of Aladdin," opening Thursday, January 25 at the Legion Theatre.

To bring "The Wonder of Aladdin" to the screen, Levine took a cast and crew of 125 Americans and Italians from Rome to the timeless marketplace of Kairouan, Tunisia.

"The Wonders of Aladdin" reflects a return," Levine says, "in a sense, to the slapstick and hijinx comedy of costume movie-making that you just don't see anymore. It's a pity too because these were the kind of pictures that attracted mass audiences everywhere. We feel our picture has caught that same spirit of humor, excitement and spectacle."

In a marriage of the styles of Mack Sennett and Cecil B. De Mille, "The Wonders of Aladdin" gets off to a running start. Donald O'Connor, who plays the legendary Aladdin, leads an irate giant a merry chase through the ancient Marketplace of Kairouan. For the scene Levine used 50 actors and 200 Kairouanians plus an odd assortment of camels, donkeys, baby lions, horses, pigeons and livestock.

Making "Aladdin" became a Kairouanian community project. "Everybody wanted to get into the act," Levine says. We had more camels than an African zoo, about 20 self appointed prop men and about ten immobile Arabs who just sat around and made baskets for us. We needed only two, but once they started making them, they wouldn't stop."

There were 500 or more people milling about the several entrances to the market place all hours of the day and night. Some even pitched tents and the more enterprising of the natives took advantage of the situation by setting up stands to sell their wares.

For the climatic battle scene of the film Levine was able to muster a regiment of 5000 troops from the nearby city of Hammamet. To outfit the cast and extra film it took more than 18,000 costumes and uniforms, pieces of weaponry saddles and bridles. Figures for props used in the film reached the uncountable stage and
